

DRY AGENTS' WINE HAIL IS RAIDED IN MULBERRY ST.

Shots Fired, Police Reserves

Day for Kids.

HUNDREDS IN FIGHT
Peddlers Grab for Barrels
With Wine Press Out to Load on Pushcarts.

YOUNGSTERS THEN GRAB

Prohibition Enforcers Finally Arrest Owner of Restaurant on the 'Bend.'

It was a great day for the kids in Mulberry street yesterday when three prohibition enforcement agents raided a basement at 125 and rolled nine barrels of wine out into the street. Nearly every pushcart pedler in the vicinity attempted to load one of the barrels on to his cart, and the enforcement agents tried to stop them. The result was that all the pushcarts were overturned and the officers drew their guns, and for fifteen minutes there were great shoutings and fightings and shootings and such noise as even Mulberry street seldom hears.

According to the reports of Agents Ernestthal, Reager and Divver, they found a wine press in operation in the Mulberry street basement. They brought five barrels of wine to the sidewalk and started back for more, when they saw a pushcart pedler trying earnestly to hoist a barrel on to his cart, while two men made efforts to load a barrel each into an automobile. The agents tried to prevent it and the fight started. One agent hit a pedler and then a pedler hit the agent. Several hundred men at this point began fighting earnestly, with the wine as a prize.

Ernestthal drew his revolver, but the crowd was so dense and there was so much going on that he decided to use it and shoot back into the pocket. Four or five of the crowd that plunged and shrieked about the wine barrels jumped on the dry agent, with the evident intention of tearing him in pieces, and the agent began using his fists as best he could.

Steals Dry Agent's Gun.

One person pulled Ernestthal's gun from his pocket, but before he could do anything with it Agent Reager drew his own gun and began to fire shots into the air. The pedler who had seized Ernestthal's gun uttered a loud cry, dropped the gun to the pavement and fled wiffly down the street with his pushcart, half a dozen boys going along with him and looting as they went.

The shots fired by Reager frightened the crowd so that it fell back from the barrels of wine, overturning pushcarts and almost trampling some small boys who were fast gathering fortunes in fruits and articles of all sorts. The shots also were heard by Patrolman Sullivan at Canal and Mulberry streets, and he telephoned to the Elizabeth street station, which sent seven men to the rescue of the wine barrels.

The policemen scattered the crowd and then the prohibition agents arrested Thomas Cagliardi, who has a restaurant above the raided basement. He will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock this morning.

Police Commissioner Enright is apparently unwilling to cooperate with United States Attorney Ross of Brooklyn in his plan for getting information regarding violators of the Volstead act from drunks and their wives. It was learned at the Federal Building in Brooklyn yesterday. Mr. Ross asked the Police Department for a daily list of the men arrested for drunkenness in his district. To this Acting Police Commissioner Leach was agreeable, but the order since has been revoked.

Tries Again for Chief List.

Mr. Ross wrote to Chief Magistrate McCado yesterday, requesting his cooperation in the matter to the extent of providing the Brooklyn District Attorney's office with a daily list of all persons brought before the magistrate's courts charged with intoxication in Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond. Federal Judge Chastell in Brooklyn adhered to his determination to impose light sentences upon violators of the Volstead act, sending the day before to a saloon keeper at 323 Smith street, to fifteen days in jail, with a fine of $100.

Application for a certificate of reasonable doubt was made to Justice Benedict in Brooklyn yesterday in behalf of Carmine Lisenziata, who was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree in connection with the sale of wood alcohol last Christmas. It was argued that Kings county was not the proper jurisdiction for the trial, and that a physician, who himself was certified against Lisenziata, were not qualified to pass judgment. Decision was reserved.

LITTLE GIRLS TESTIFY AT MURDER TRIAL

Appear Against Alleged Slayer of Their Mother.

Three little girls took the stand yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Callaghan in Brooklyn and testified against Rafael Spino of 116 Sixth street, who is charged with murdering their mother, Mrs. Mary Stengo, of 114 Sixth street. Antonietta, 10, said that she and her sister, Sarah, 13, were home the night of September 23 last. Their father, Matteo Stengo, left for a nearby fruit store. His wife apparently apprehensive, followed after him.

"My mother did not go far," said the girl, "when I heard a shot. I ran to the window and saw my father and mother near each other on the street. About twelve feet away were Mr. Spino and his father. I ran downstairs toward my father and mother. There were more shots. Just as I reached my mother she fell on top of me."

TOO MUCH HEAT COMPLAIN, JANITORS RECOMEND

Records Are Made in Two Unusual East Side Apartment Cases—Health Department Looks Into House When Temperature Hovers About 84.

Abraham Goldstein, who has been janitor for a long time at the tenement house in 51 East 131st street, pulled off his overalls yesterday morning, put on something else just as concealing, and then rapped in a very determined and hostile manner with all his knuckles on the door of the first floor rear. The door was opened by the owner of the house, Arnold Pittner, who stared mildly at his employee.

"I quit," announced Mr. Goldstein. "From now on you ain't my boss!" "Why?" inquired Mr. Pittner. "For what?" cried Mr. Goldstein. "For what?" asked Mr. Pittner. "All right," said Mr. Pittner, "I'll ask you. Why?"

"Because," said Mr. Goldstein, "you ain't the kind of a landlord that I should work for. What kind of a landlord are you? I ask you?" "I try to be nice to my tenants," said Mr. Pittner.

"To your tenants you are nice," agreed Mr. Goldstein, "but not to your janitor. Don't janitors have to live? Ain't I a janitor, got to eat? This janitor job I got here used to be nice, a nice piece of money to pick up away from my regular job, with almost no coal to shovel. But what do I do now? Shovel, shovel, shovel. Nothing but shovel coal. All day long I shovel coal into the furnace, so that I don't get time to work and make a living. I never heard of a landlord that gives people so much heat as you give. I quit. Goodbye!"

Mr. Goldstein is not the only person whose displeasure Mr. Pittner incurred by his efforts to keep his apartment house sizzling at all hours of the day and night. Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, received a letter from Mrs. Catherine Hilman, who occupies the first floor, front, in which Mrs. Hilman complains bitterly that Mr. Pittner furnishes entirely too much heat.

"Will you kindly investigate our apartment?" she wrote. "The heat runs to 84 degrees most of the time. We are forced to open all the windows wide. Therefore, my baby has a bad cough, because a few—four—other tenants complained of not getting enough heat only through anger. Most of us are satisfied with last year's supply of heat, which was sufficient. We were never sick."

It was necessary to make an entirely new file for Mrs. Hilman's letter at the offices of the Health Department, for never before had the department received a letter complaining that the landlord furnished too much heat. And so far as anybody can learn never before has a janitor in New York had to quit because he had time only to shovel coal into the furnace.

U. S. AGENT ACCUSED OF ACCEPTING BRIBE

Department of Justice Employee Held in Enemy Alien Investigation.

Eugene P. Martin, special agent for the Department of Justice, was arrested yesterday on a charge of having accepted a bribe of $300 to use an application which had been made to the State Department by Edward Dause, a resident and subject of Germany for permission to enter the United States from Cuba. During the war Martin conducted the investigation of many important enemy alien cases for the Government, and was considered one of the most trusted men in the department.

The complaint, made by James C. Dunn, another special agent of the Department of Justice, charges that Martin, on November 17, in negotiations with a representative of Dause in this city, had promised to recommend that the German be permitted to land here, provided he got $300 for the visa. At that time, it is understood, Martin accepted $300 on account and, it is said, he received the remaining $270 yesterday just before his arrest.

John Joyce and Ben A. Matthews, Assistant United States Attorneys, who are handling the case, have the name of the man who, it is said, paid the money for Dause. They said last night they would summon him during the prosecution against Martin. He is said to be a man of much wealth and holder of more than $100,000 worth of Liberty bonds.

As the United States is still technically at war with Germany, the State Department requires that all enemy aliens before entering must have their applications investigated before passports are granted. It was during such an investigation that Martin is said to have accepted the bribe.

Martin was arraigned before Samuel M. Hitchcock, United States Commissioner, and held in $2,500 bail for a hearing on December 23. He furnished surety.

BABSON SEES PROSPERITY DUE TO PROHIBITION

Drink Money Going Into Homes, Says Statistician.

Roger W. Babson, statistician, spoke yesterday at a luncheon of the Advertising Club on present day factors which he said should make for business prosperity. Mr. Babson said that the great mass of people still had the Government bonds purchased during the war, constituting a big reserve of buying power. Billions of dollars which hitherto were spent for drink, now go into the building of homes and the buying of comforts and general merchandise, he said.

Mr. Babson pointed out that the banking system was more flexible today than it ever had been in time of stress. He said national advertising had come to stay and that the war had resulted in the standardization of many lines, causing greater efficiency in production. He thought that an impetus had been given to foreign trade which would continue for many years and said that seasonal fluctuations in manufacturing and selling were being eliminated. Mr. Babson expects taxes will be reduced and thinks the recent election showed that "the mass of the people are at heart conservatives."

In the evening he spoke at a mass meeting of executives and foremen of large manufacturing and mercantile firms at Cooper Union. He said there were opportunities in every line of business and characterized industry, integrity, intelligence, initiative, interest and industry as the "six I's of success."

BROOKLYN CHURCHES FORM FEDERATION

Ten Protestant Denominations
Join Forces.

Announcement was made yesterday of the formation of the Brooklyn Federation of Churches, in which ten Protestant denominations have joined forces.

"We are trying to bring about the fullest cooperation between the churches of Brooklyn," said the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, pastor of the Bedford Presbyterian Church. "We are not aiming at theological unity, but at working unity. We are trying to get the churches to cooperate in the things on which they all agree."

Dr. Young is chairman of the temporary committee formed by the Rev. Frederick Marsh Gordon of the Flatbush Christian (Disciples) Church is secretary and Samuel Rowland, representing the Reformed Church on the Heights, is treasurer.

The final vote for the organization of the federation was taken by eighty pastors and laymen. The temporary committee has arranged for a meeting to be held at the Central branch of the Y. M. C. A. on Monday night, January 3, for the adoption of a constitution and other business.

HYLAN APPROVES POLICE HOSPITAL

Tells General du Pont His Only Objection Is to Solicitation by Uniformed Police.

Mayor Hylan gave his approval yesterday to the proposed $50,000 police hospital, the campaign for funds for which he is understood to have stopped a week ago because of plans to use the uniformed policemen of the city to aid in obtaining subscriptions. The Mayor's new attitude was revealed in correspondence between him and Coleman du Pont, Special Deputy Police Commissioner and president of the Police Hospital Corporation, which was made public by the Mayor.

Gen. Du Pont's letter set forth at great length the "advantages" of the proposed hospital and the "conservative" manner in which the funds are to be raised. The Mayor replied: "I feel that, as Mayor of New York, it would be presumptuous on my part to take any step that might interfere with the high purpose of the gentlemen associated with you in this movement."

The Mayor stipulated, however, that "under no circumstances can I give my consent as Mayor of the city to the uniformed police of the city of New York being permitted to take any active part in the raising of funds, or in any way being diverted from the duties for which they were appointed."

Gen. Du Pont's letter indicated that large contributions have been pledged by theatrical and motion picture interests. There will be three benefit performances Sunday night, one at the Hippodrome and the others at the Republic and the Eltinge theatres.

Subscriptions will be solicited by committees. Gen. Du Pont said, and the police will not be used in any way. He made public the personnel of an honorary committee, headed by Judge Albert H. Gay, Jr., Jefferson D. Thompson will head the Greater New York committee. His letter also gave the following as officers of the Police Hospital Corporation, which was incorporated last August 12:

Coleman du Pont, president; R. A. C. Smith, first vice-president; Jefferson D. Thompson, second vice-president; Henry A. Metz, third vice-president; Walter Scott, fourth vice-president; Charles Thorley, fifth vice-president; Louis G. Kaufman, treasurer; Henry W. Dearborn, secretary. Mr. Dearborn is also secretary to Commissioner Enright.

The sudden halting of the programme which had been arranged previously to the signature of Commissioner Enright on his vacation is reported to have helped him make up his mind to cut his trip short and hurry back to New York. He conferred with the Mayor and the police hospital is said to have been one of the principal subjects under discussion.

OPPOSE CHARITY PLEA FOR CONEY HOSPITAL

Bird S. Coler and Dr. Mc-
Adam Before State Board.

Bird S. Coler, Commissioner of Public Welfare, and Dr. Henry G. McAdam, representing the Commissioner of Health, appeared before the Commissioners of the State Board of Charities last night and opposed a petition to place the proposed Coney Island hospital, on a charity basis, which would exempt it from taxation.

Dr. McAdam declared that solicitors of subscriptions on subways and elsewhere have misrepresented the project as being a charity, while, whereas, according to Dr. McAdam, it is a promotion to make use of the property formerly occupied by the Brooklyn Children's Aid Society, but not controlled by that society.

EDITOR OF MUSEUM MAGAZINE IN BELLEVUE

Miss Mary C. Dickerson Is Again Under Observation.

Miss Mary C. Dickerson, 53 years old, who edits the bi-monthly magazine Natural History, issued by the Metropolitan Museum of Natural History, was taken last night from the museum to Bellevue Hospital. An attendant notified the police that Miss Dickerson was acting peculiarly. Dr. Foster Kennedy of 20 West Fifth street advised that she be sent to the hospital.

The police learned later, it was said, that Miss Dickerson had been under observation at Bellevue during the week of November 19, and had been paroled in custody of her brother.

After leaving the hospital she resumed her work at the museum. Her home is at 450 West 118th street. Her brother's address, as given at Bellevue Hospital, was 238 East Seventy-ninth street, Cleveland.

JOHN M. HARTMAN ARRESTED.

Detectives from Police Headquarters arrested last night a man giving his name as John M. Hartman, 30 years old, at the Chelsea Hotel, 22 West Twenty-third street. Detectives Dean, Brown and McCartney, who made the arrest, say that Hartman is wanted in Minneapolis on a charge of grand larceny and embezzlement. He is accused of the pilfering of $50,000 from the firm of Hartman & Co., of which he was a member. When Hartman was arrested he had $5,100 in his possession.

MISSING MINISTER RETURNS, ALSO GIRL

Rev. Cornelius Densel, Gone
Since Nov. 12, Reaches Pas-sac With Miss Hennenberg.

ASKS CHURCH TO FORGIVE

Reported He Will Be Re-elected
Pastor—Has Wife and Eight Children.

The Rev. Cornelius Densel, pastor of the Netherlands Reformed Church at Passaic, N. J., who disappeared November 12 at the same time that Miss Trina Hennenberg, a member of the church and prominent in the sewing circle, left her home in 25 Pine street, Passaic, returned to his wife and eight children late Wednesday night. Miss Hennenberg returned home also.

She and the preacher went to Passaic together in a taxicab from New York after an official of the church had met them here. When the car reached Passaic Mr. Densel alighted in front of his home, after which the taxicab continued on until the girl's home was reached.

When reporters asked Miss Hennenberg, as well as members of their families, would divulge any information regarding the places visited by the preacher and the young woman, or the reasons for their disappearance and return, although it is known that their families received postcards from them mailed at Toronto and Niagara Falls.

When reporters asked Miss Hennenberg yesterday for details of her father's statement:

"To Whom It May Concern: I have been away on a personal trip and have now returned."

"Miss TRINA HENNEBERG." Mr. Densel would not come to the front of his home when inquirers called to ascertain details of his disappearance, but his fourteen-year-old son Benjamin handed them a typewritten statement prepared by the minister's twenty-six-year-old son Richard. This reads as follows:

"Last Monday evening the congregation met to select a new pastor. There was a slight difference of opinion, and it was decided to hold a consistory meeting last night. To this meeting those who held differences of opinion were asked to come and state them to the consistory. My father, my brother Cornelius and I went to the meeting. As my father came in the forty-odd men present seemed very surprised."

"In the Holland language my father made a statement. Its English translation is about as follows: 'I do not come to you as your pastor or as a member of the congregation, but simply as a stranger, and hope that you will forgive the mistake I made in resigning from the church so abruptly.' Speaking for my family, my father's explanation of absence is satisfactory to my mother and to us."

Mr. Densel said: "My husband is back and I am very glad to have him home again."

Henry Dross, secretary of the church consistory, said yesterday that Mr. Densel had not been admitted to the meeting of that body when he entered the church night before last, but that he had made his statements to members of the church gathered in the Sunday school room.

During the progress of the statement by Mr. Densel the members of the congregation, the minister and his sons. It was reported in church circles yesterday that Mr. Densel would again be elected pastor of the congregation, but that Miss Hennenberg and the members of her family would be asked to resign from the church.

The minister told his friends that he was brought back to Passaic by an act of God, that the words of the Lord kept recurring to him as he "walked the streets of strange cities."

BREWER ARRESTED ON ARMY FRAUD CHARGE

Magazine Man Accused of Improper Use of Uniforms.

William S. Brewer, publisher of a magazine which he calls the A. E. F., or Fun in France, and director of an organization to which he has given the name of the Ex-Servicemen's Cooperative League, who was indicted December 4 on a charge of using the mails to defraud, was arrested and held in $2,500 bail yesterday on a second charge, that of procuring men who were not soldiers to wear the uniform of the United States Army.

Brewer's magazine, which carries on its first page an announcement that the magazine is a publication in aid of the United States Army, has been sold in subway and elevated trains and on the streets by men who wore uniforms clearly resembling that of the United States Army. Among the charges contained in the indictment against Brewer is one that no soldier even benefited to the extent of a penny from the sale of the magazine, and that Brewer has accumulated more than $53,000 since he began publishing it.

He was arrested yesterday in the Federal Building after the men who used to sell his magazine, Harry Faus, Louis Mendelsohn and Harry Newman, had pleaded guilty to wearing army uniforms illegally. All three said they had once been in the army and advised the uniforms they had on, but had been discharged from the service more than a year ago. Faus and Mendelsohn were sentenced to serve thirty days each in jail and Newman was given a sentence of sixty days. The men will be used as witnesses at Brewer's trial.

Miss MacFarlane also was appointed as guardian for the widow, for whom she has acted as nurse for the last sixteen years.

Mr. Earle left to Dugal McNichol, his chauffeur, $1,000 and also gave to Miss MacFarlane a similar amount. According to the will Miss MacFarlane will have complete control of all property and is ordered to collect and pay the income to Mrs. Earle.

The American Bible Society Inc., defendant in a rent law case, was held for trial as a corporation in the Court of Special Sessions yesterday by order of Magistrate McCloskey in Flatbush Court, Brooklyn. The society owns an apartment house at 113 Pacific street, Brooklyn, and had been accused of supplying inadequate service by removing a restaurant from the premises and refusing to permit tenants to do their own cooking.

STATE DONE WITH DAYLIGHT SAVING

Bill to Repeal Act Is Arranged for at Conference of G.
O. P. Leaders.

FARMERS WIN LONG FIGHT

Consolidation of Departments
Considered—Objection Made to Hylan Inquiry.

Daylight saving is at an end in New York. The act will be cut out of the statute books at the earliest possible time after Governor-elect Nathan L. Miller takes office.

Word that the long fight led by the cities for the daylight saving system, with all the farmers of the State fighting it, had been lost came yesterday from a conference at the headquarters of the Republican State Committee.

Governor-elect Miller was in Albany, but Assemblyman Charles H. Betts of Wayne county, Republican leader, sat in the conference for a time, and when he came out he said he would reintroduce his bill for the repeal of daylight saving and that it would be passed and signed by the Governor.

Daylight saving was one of the most potent issues of the campaign, and Gov. Smith said after an up State tour that he knew he was done for when he told the farmers he would not sign a repeal of the bill. Gov. Miller has sympathized with the stand of the farmers, who argued that daylight saving for them meant that they would have to get up an hour earlier and work an hour later, as a farmer never calls a halt until the light is gone. He had to get up earlier to catch the milk trains.

The decision will be a severe blow to the parent organization, the Daylight Saving Association.

The conference also considered the consolidation of the Department of Highways and the Department of Public Works, the consolidation of all revenue collecting agencies and the reorganization of the Public Service Commission.

Chairman Glynn was asked by Senator-elect Theodore Douglas Robinson of Herkimer county for support to a resolution for an investigation of the Hylan administration. He said he had received a letter from H. H. Klein, Deputy Commissioner of Accounts, asking why up-State were so much interested in investigating New York city, and inviting him to "come down and spend a week studying the situation."

Attending the conference were George A. Glynn, chairman of the Republican State Committee; George W. Aldridge of Rochester, William L. Ward of Westchester, Samuel S. Koenig, Assemblyman H. Edmund Machold, slated to be Speaker of the Assembly; Mayor W. J. Wallin of Yonkers, Philip J. Elting of Ulster county, George C. Brown of Richmond, Arthur Lawrence of Bronxville, Assemblyman Thomas C. Moore of Westchester and Assemblyman-elect J. A. Brooks of Madison county.

MISSING GIRL RAN OFF TO STUDY ART AT NIGHT

Goldie Haggerty's Ideals Too
High for Brooklyn Home.

Goldie Blanche Haggerty, 15 years old, who disappeared Monday from her home, 28 Madison street, Brooklyn, and reported to Jamaica High School, which she was attending, was found last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Samuelson, in Nassau Boulevard, near Garden City. The girl had applied there Monday night for a place to sleep, saying her mother was dead and her father mistreated her.

Mr. Malves, a garage keeper, telephoned yesterday afternoon to Charles Vosburgh, principal of the Jamaica High School, who was directing a search in which the pupils were engaged, that a girl who looked like a photograph of the missing Goldie was at his home. It was the first he had known of a missing girl, he said.

Mr. Malves, who asked, according to Detective Hoerster, that she had purchased a bottle of iodine and was on her way to a woods to drink it when it dropped from her hand and broke. She was taken back to her parents in Brooklyn last night. Mr. Malves said the girl had asked to stay at their home until she could obtain work.

STORAGE EGGS BRING FINE.

Cold storage eggs put on sale in the poultry market of Harry Glasberg, at 1331 Second avenue, with signs reading "Strictly Fresh," caused Glasberg a fine of 100 yesterday in the Criminal Magistrate's court. Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Commissioner of Health, started a "fresh egg" campaign this week, and Glasberg was the first conviction. The case was heard by Magistrate Alexander Brough.

The Book The Kaiser Suppressed

BISMARCK'S MEMOIRS

A History-Making Revelation for Which the World
Has Waited for Twenty Years

For many years the third volume of the Memoirs of Prince Otto von Bismarck has lain, in printed form, by thousands, in the warehouse of its German publisher, withheld from the eyes of the world—suppressed by the former Kaiser for personal and political reasons that the then young Emperor considered of the highest importance.

Numerous efforts have been made to release the book, but as often powerful interests, through court injunctions and otherwise, have kept its pages from public view. Only now, after more than twenty years of suppression, has the seal of mystery been broken.

This frantically guarded book is still unpublished, but a prominent German has read its pages and has written what the book contains.

Its story discloses that the Iron Chancellor, writing as an unwilling prophet, twenty years before the murders of Sarajevo, foresaw the world war and fixed the culpability on William II; he considered the Russo-German treaty of supreme importance to the peace of not only Germany but of all Europe; he tells of bitter clashes with his power loving sovereign, of his numerous resignations and his final release from the high office conspicuously held for so many years, of his being put out of his palace by the Kaiser, who had turned against him, and he reveals secrets of Russian diplomacy that, in one instance, astounded the Kaiser himself.

Your first chance to learn the details of the book's suppression and the full story of what the book contains will be presented through the columns of
